GENERAL ADMINISTRATION.

The Najmu-l-Akhbár (Etáwah), of the 24th December,

Circulation,
168 copies.

Administrations of Lord Lytton and Lord Ripon. observes that there is an old proverb among the natives to the effect that the prosperity or ruin of a country depends on the good or evil intentions of its king. The administrations of Lord Lytton and Lord Ripon go to confirm the truth of this proverb to a large extent. Lord Lytton was bent on the ruin of the country. Had he lived in the dark ages and had he been a king or a governor, he would have been a perfect tyrant and would have surpassed Changez Khán and Nádir Sháh in tyranny and oppression. He would have cut the tongues of natives in order to prevent them from opening the mouth of complaint, stripped them of their very clothes, and even flayed them alive. Although Her Majesty heartily desires the welfare of her Indian subjects, he did all he could to bring about the ruin of the country. As he was an evil-minded man, a most terrible famine broke out and committed havoc among the people. He picked a quarrel with Sher Ali Khán and waged war against him, which involved the loss of thousands of valuable lives and cost many millions sterling. But as Lord Ripon had good intentions, the country enjoyed an immunity from every kind of calamity during his administration, and perfect peace and tranquillity prevailed. Lord Lytton turned Sher Ali, who was a friend, into an enemy; but Lord Ripon has turned Abdul Rahmán, who was an enemy, into a friend. It is to be hoped that Lord Dufferin will endeavour to promote the best interests of the people in order that his government may be successful like his illustrious predecessor's.

The Oudh Akhbár (Lucknow), of the 30th December, advertising to the orders issued by the Local Government for the trial before Courts of Session of certain classes of offences, remarks that this important reform will greatly promote the ends of justice. But it is necessary that competent persons, who possess some legal knowledge, should be appointed jurors. Formerly the panchait system, which is only a kind of trial by jury, was largely prevalent in this country, and is even now in vogue among the lower classes of people to a certain extent.

The Waqāya-i-Ālam (Gházipur), of the 22nd December, Case of Mirza Firoz states that the arbitrary proceedings Bakht, ex-naib tahsildar. of district officers greatly tend to prevent the growth of good feeling between the rulers and the ruled. Justice should be always tempered with mercy. Bare justice sometimes looks like oppression. Mirza Firoz Bakht, a member of the Delhi family, was a naib tahsildár. Lately a servant of his made over a watch to him, requesting him to keep it. He received it, as servants often keep their valuables with their masters. Perhaps it was stolen property, but he did not at all suspect it to be so. He at once produced it when he was required to do so. Mr. Steel, Joint Magistrate, Allahabad, convicted him under section 411 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced him to three months' rigorous imprisonment in September last. The conviction and the sentence were upheld by the District and Sessions Judge. But the Mirza was acquitted by the High Court. The Waqdyā publishes a full vernacular translation of the judgment of Mr. Justice Oldfield, who heard the appeal, and observes that he has justly remarked in his judgment that it is difficult to realise that a man in the position of the accused would commit the offence with which he was charged. It is almost needless to say that the district officers should have also allowed themselves to be influenced by the same consideration. On his acquittal the Mirza submitted a petition to the Collector of Allahabad praying to be reinstated in his post, but it was rejected. It is to be hoped that the Local Government will interfere and do him justice.

A correspondent of the Shaffq-i-Hind (Lahore), of the New Patwāri Fund, 27th December, referring to the new Panjáb. rules framed by the Financial Commissioner of the Panjáb about the pay of patwāris, remarks that the new arrangement will be an improvement on the present system, inasmuch as patwāris will be paid monthly in future instead of half-yearly. But their salaries will be reduced. The reduction in pay will press hard on them, especially as the irrigation officers have lately relieved them of irrigation work and stopped the allowance which they used to pay them for it. There seems to be no reason why the patwāris should not be paid their full salaries as provided in the khewat of the late Settlement. The full contributions made by the landholders for the purpose should be paid to the patwāris without making any deductions from them for the new Patwāri Fund which it is proposed to establish.

A correspondent of the Panjábi Akhbár (Lahore), of the 24th December, writing from Quetta, regrets to state that Europeans, who kill natives, are always allowed to escape scot-free on some pretext or another, and that the result is that such unfortunate incidents are now of frequent occurrence. If a native kills even a dog belonging to a European, he is sure to be punished, while Europeans are able to lay violent hands on natives with perfect impunity ! A dooli-bearer, attached to the hospital for European soldiers, has been lately kicked to death by Surgeon-Major Standard (sic). The case is under inquiry. But the writer will not be surprised if the accused is acquitted on the pretext that he was drunk at the time, or that the deceased died from a rupture of the spleen.

Mr. Hannagan, Subordinate Judge at Lucknow, now pleader, draws attention to the following matters :—(1) Court chaprásis at Lucknow call pleaders in a very impertinent way. They never prefix any vernacular term corresponding to the English term "Mr." to their names when calling them. (2) A notice containing some objectionable rules is to be seen put up at the Subordinate Judge's Court at Lucknow. The first of the rules provides that if a plaint, or an answer to a plaint, filed in Court is not signed by a pleader, the fee paid by the party, filing the plaint or the answer, to his pleader will not be considered as a legal charge. Evidently Mr. Hannagan's object is that if any suitor wishes to engage the services of a pleader, he should get his plaint, or answer to a plaint, as the case may be, signed by the pleader, in order that the latter may be responsible for its correctness. The third rule provides that if three plaints, presented by a pleader, are returned owing to their not having been properly drawn up in accordance with the provisions of Circular No. 3 of 1884 or the Civil Procedure Code, the pleader will be reported to the Judicial Commissioner ! This rule is very objectionable, inasmuch as it gives undue power to the Subordinate Judge over the pleaders. If such a rule were introduced into all other courts, the bar would lose all its independence and practically become the slave of the bench.

Such a rule is as unjust as it would be on the part of Government to call for an explanation from a Judge when his three judgments were reversed on appeal. As Mr. Hannagan is a short-tempered man, he is sure to abuse the power in question. The pleaders should establish an association for the protection of their rights and privileges.

The same paper, of the 26th December, in an article com-

Subordinate Judge, Lucknow, and the licensed translators attached to his Court. municated by a translator attached to the Subordinate Judge's Court at Lucknow, complains that the Subordinate Judge has issued orders to the effect that if a translator omits any word in his translation, the Court will assume that the omission has been made deliberately to deceive it and will deal with the translator accordingly! Apparently the orders are unnecessary and unjust. It is simply impossible to make a literal translation, in the strict sense of the term, of Urdu into English, especially as in Urdu writings the construction of sentences is sometimes involved, and a great many superfluous words are used. A literal translation would be quite unidiomatic and unintelligible. Of course, if a translator omits any important thing, he should be severely punished.

The same paper, of the 24th December, states that a conference was to be held at Allahabad during the Christmas, under the Allahabad Hindú Samaj and Hindi. auspices of the Hindu Samáj, to consider the question of encouraging Hindí and moving the Local Government to make it the Court language. The advocates of that language have been invited from distant parts of the country to take part in the proceedings. The superiority of the Hindí character over the Urdu character has been admitted on all hands, and Hindí is the language of the bulk of the population in those provinces. Although the movement in favour of Hindí has the entire sympathy of the Hindustáns, it thinks that it would be better if English were substituted in place of Urdu as Court language. The arrangement would create a demand for English education and would be also economical, inasmuch as in that case Government would be able to dispense with the services of translators. If Government does not abandon the use of Urdu, the agitation in favour of Hindi should be maintained and every endeavour should be made to encourage that language. When the use of that language becomes still more general, Government will be obliged to introduce it into Courts.

Arrears of work in the Court of the Judicial Commissioner, Lucknow.

lishes an article communicated by Jwálá Prasád, pleader, Lucknow.

The writer argues that one Judicial Commissioner is by no means sufficient for the requirements of Oudh. Besides hearing appeals, he has to exercise control over the subordinate Courts and to issue necessary rules and circulars for their guidance. Upwards of nine hundred suits are pending on his file. He holds his Court three days in the week, and suppose he decides six cases each day on an average. At that rate he will take a year to dispose of the appeals already pending in his Court. But in the meantime an equal number of fresh appeals will be instituted. The delay in the decision of cases is necessarily attended with inconvenience and loss to suitors. Hence it is necessary to appoint one more Judicial Commissioner. The income from court-fees in the United Provinces amounts to 90 lakhs of rupees a year, and exceeds the cost of the maintenance of the courts of justice. The writer also finds fault with the people for their litigiousness and advises them to have their disputes settled by arbitration without resorting to courts.

The Khair Khwāh-i-Islām (Allahabad), of the 29th December, states that European officers Native officers and the police at Allahabad. are as a rule actuated by a sincere desire of dispensing even-handed justice and decide all cases with care and impartiality. But the Khair Khwāh is unable to speak of native officers in the same high terms. The conduct of native officers and the police at Allahabad is unsatisfactory and has created great discontent among all classes of the community. The Khair Khwâh does not wish to enter into details lest it may get into difficulty. But it is no secret that a very unsatisfactory state of things prevails there. The police get hundreds of innocent persons convicted and sentenced to imprisonment, but they are unable to check crime. Thieves have increased so largely that the people keep up the whole night in order to protect their property. Bad characters openly assault respectable persons in streets, and carry young respectable women from streets to their houses by force and detain them there. The police are a terror to respectable persons, but take good care not to interfere with bad characters.

The Kavivachan Sudhá (Benares), of the 22nd December, Circulation, 350 copies.
Liquor-shops at Benares. liquor-shops have been recently closed at Benares by order of the Magistrate, on the ground that they were situated in thickly inhabited parts of the town. It is to be hoped that other shops will gradually share the same fate. There are at present no less than 42 such shops within the town which greatly encourage the spread of drunkenness among native youths.

The Bhárat Jíwan- (Benares), of the 29th December, Circulation, 1,400 copies.
Traffic to and from the Rájghát ferry at Benares. publishes the orders recently issued by the Local Government about traffic to and from the Rájghát ferry at Benares and the schedule of rates, and is glad to remark that boatmen will not now be able to extort exorbitant tolls from the people. In order to give due publicity to the rates, printed copies of the schedule in Hindi should be put up in streets and in boats themselves. The local authorities should see that boatmen do not levy more than the fixed rates. No boats, which are not strong enough and in proper order, should be allowed to ply, especially during the rains.

Circulation,
40 copies.

The Growse Gazette (Bulandshahr), of the 22nd December, publishes a communication from F. S. Growse, Esq., late Magistrate and Collector of Bulandshahr.

F. S. Growse, late Magistrate and Collector of Bulandshahr. The writer states that among other local improvements many works of public utility, such as the Lyall Tank, the Motibagh Garden, the Town-hall, the Growse-ganj, &c., were constructed at Bulandshahr during Mr. Growse's tenure of office, praises him for his politeness and sympathy with the children of the soil, and remarks that his departure from that place is viewed with feelings of profound regret by the whole community. The Gazette, in its local news column, states that when Mr. Growse left for Fatehpur on the 21st December, there was a large gathering at his house of the nobility and gentry, who had assembled to bid him farewell. His departure was a very touching one. The natives present on the occasion actually shed tears when he took leave of them.

POST-OFFICE AND RAILWAY.

Circulation,

A correspondent of the Bhárat Jánan (Benares), of the Post-office at Tárigáh, 29th December, complains that it Gházipur.

It appears that the village post-office at Tárigáh, which is a railway-station and is situated on the other bank of the Ganges at Gházipur, has not yet been supplied with the usual seal. Hence the school-master, who is in charge of the post-office, has to write the date and the name of the post-office on every cover. This arrangement is very objectionable.

Circulation,
164 copies.

The Dinkar Prakás (Lucknow), of the 25th November, (received on the 29th December), complains that railway officials as a rule do not treat native passengers properly and do not at all hesitate to abuse and assault them. Lately, when one Sháhzáda Malik Hussain Khán, a respectable person, Alleged misconduct of a railway official towards a native passenger at Cawnpore.

after booking himself at the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway-station at Cawnpore, went to the platform to take his seat, a quarrel arose between him and a railway official owing to some reason or another. On this the latter at once ordered railway coolies to beat the former.

The Panjabi Akhbár (Lahore), of the 20th December, Reduction made in rates of fare by the Sindh, Panjab, and Delhi Railway Company during the Christmas.

regrets to state that the Sindh, Panjab, and Delhi Railway Company reduced the rates of fare only for the first and second classes of passengers during the Christmas. Hence the concession was practically confined to Europeans ; while, on the contrary, native officials, whose pay is small, and who stand in special need for such an indulgence, were left out in the cold.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

to state that a large public meeting was held at the municipal hall at Agra on the 21st idem to effect reconciliation between the Hindús and Musalmáns.

The leaders of the two communities delivered speeches suited to the occasion and even embraced each other. It is to be hoped that the restoration of friendship between the two classes will be lasting.

Persons of bad character at Lucknow.

(received on the 29th December), complains that some persons of bad character at Lucknow are in the habit of harassing respectable women, who go to the Gomti to bathe, on their way to and from the river. It would be a good thing if separate routes to the river were fixed for men and women in order to put a stop to this evil.

The Kavivachan Sudha (Benares), of the 22nd Decem-

Circulation,
525 copies.

The Koh-i-Nur (Lahore), of the 27th December, on the Robberies in Tarantaran. authority of its Amritsar correspondent, complains that pilgrims on their way from Amritsar to Tarantaran and Rámtirth are often plundered by villagers. On the 17th idem three persons, who were travelling in an ekka, were attacked by a gang of robbers within a mile of Tarantaran. As they had no valuables, the robbers decamped after beating them. They reported the matter to the police, but the latter made no attempt to discover the thieves.
